CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS invaluable remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, has attained a celebrity, from its [illegible] cures, never before [illegible] by any other medicine of the kind. Many [illegible] have proved themselves [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] that [illegible] have so fully won the confidence of every community where it is known. After years of trial in every climate, the results have unequivocally established the fact, that it is the most effectual antidote for diseases of the throat and lungs.

See the statements, not of obscure individuals, and of [illegible] publications, but of men who are known and respected throughout the country.

The widely celebrate Dr. DAVID VALENTINE [illegible] of New York City, says:

"It gives me pleasure to certify the value, and efficacy of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I consider peculiarly adapted to cure diseases of the throat, and lungs."

DR. PERKINS, the venerable President of the Vermont Medical College, one of the most worthy [illegible] of the practitioners of this country, writes, the Cherry Pectoral is exceedingly useful in this section, where it has done [illegible] the relief and cure of [illegible] diseases."

The Rev. JNO. D. COGSWAMS, a distinguished Clergyman of the Episcopal Church, writes, to the Proprietor from Montreal, that he has been [illegible] of a severe and dangerous affection of the throat and lungs. His letter is full, length, to be found in your circulars, but we [illegible] of the Agent, and if [illegible] the attention of [illegible] particulars.

☞ This letter is from the well known Druggist at Dublin, Michigan, one of the most [illegible] in the State, and the case is from his own observation.

Dublin, Washtenaw Co., Mich., Dec. 15, 1849.

Dear Sir: Immediately on receipt of your Cherry Pectoral, I carried a bot. [illegible] to an acquaintance of mine who was thought to be near his end with quick consumption. He was then [illegible] to rise from his bed, [illegible] and was [illegible] believed he would soon die, unless relief could be obtained. [illegible] and he [illegible] them to give your excellent medicine a trial. I came [illegible] to town for, three weeks, and [illegible] to my surprise on my return, to meet him in the street on my way home from the cars, and [illegible] his thanks. From what I learned from the [illegible] he soon began [illegible] taking your medicine, he was [illegible] work at his accustomed trade as a blacksmith.

There are other cases within my knowledge, where the Cherry Pectoral has been [illegible] successful, but [illegible] to multiply them.

Very truly yours, C. W. UNDERWOOD.

Sewing by Machinery.

To Journeymen Tailors, Seamstresses, Employers, and all others interested in Sewing of any description.

SEVERAL attempts have been made to produce Machines for Sewing, but they were not without objections, and could be used to little advantage or profit.

SINGER & PHELPS' Celebrated Sewing Machine, invented by Isaac M. Singer and manufactured by Singer & Phelps, No. 19 Harvard Place, Boston, Mass., is offered to the public as a perfect machine, and will be constructed and adapted to perform any kind of work, from the stitching of fine, short seam to a stout shoe or saddle, of the most [illegible] description of leather. Their needle is straight, and works perpendicularly upon the table of the machine, affording room and opportunity to adjust the fabric in any way,—and the stitch may be regulated to any length, even to a hair's breadth.

The stitch made by the machines is one which will not ravel or open, and the sewing cannot be taken apart by cutting every second or third stitch. From 500 to 1500 stitches, according to the fabric operated upon, may be taken per minute.

To bring this machine to perfection, much labor and study have been expended upon it by the inventor, and the subscribers now offer the public Sewing Machines, feeling confident that the correct principles upon [illegible], with the recommendations here given, [illegible].

The profits arising from the use of one of these machines, which sews with either one or two needles, is from five to six dollars per day. The operation is not confined to the manufacture of clothing only, but may be applied to sewing every description of linen, cotton, woolen, and [illegible] leather.

This machine, with ordinary care, is warranted to run one year without repairs, and will last many years. And it is so simple in its construction, and especially regulated and managed, that any person of ordinary ability may operate it.

The price of one of these machines, which is worked by a treadle, and capable of sewing any ordinary linen, cotton or woolen fabric, is one hundred and twenty-five dollars, complete, with [illegible] for operation.

These machines are a beautiful and neat [illegible] appearance, and they take up so little room that they are an ornament in any lady's sewing apartment.

☞ An Agent, (with whom exclusive arrangements will be made,) is wanted in every city and town in the United States.

All applications for Agencies, and all orders, enclosing money for machines, (which will be [illegible] packed to send to any part of the world) as well as all inquiries about their application to other purposes, will be promptly attended to by the manufactory. All letters must be post-paid and addressed to SINGER & PHELPS,

PATENTS.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

WITH U. S. PATENT OFFICE,

WASHINGTON

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1836 the Government was appointed by the Commissioner of Patents Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th Sec. of Act '35.

Having relinquished the Agency, for the transmission of Models and adopted a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, where a Patent may be procured about six weeks earlier, he continues to forward them free of expense—to procure Patents, Re-Issues, Assignments and Extensions, and to transact all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice in legal and equitable matters respecting the same. Patents secured in England and other countries.

His application at this office inventors are spared the time and expense of a journey to Washington and delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. They also have the advantage of verbally explaining their inventions and of consulting in respect to the matters in general of paramount importance in order to obtain correct specifications and claims. The experience of sixteen years' practice, an extensive collection of rare works, decisions, &c. on mechanical subjects, the Patent Laws, and patents of different countries collected at much expense during the long time this office has been established, together with accounts here of all inventions patented at Washington, enable the subscriber to afford to inventors desirous of procuring Patents, assistance and information which in other connections might be difficult of attainment.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

WASHINGTON, JULY 21, 1849.—During the time I occupied the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. EDDY, Esq. of Boston, did business at the Patent Office as Solicitor, for procuring Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring Inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. Late Commissioner of Patents.

The following letter from the Superintendent of the Maine Telegraph Company, is another proof of the superiority of JOHN B. WILDER'S Safe over all others:—

BANGOR, Oct 24, 1849.

John B. Wilder, Esq.—

Dear Sir: The Safe I purchased of you was exposed in a great degree of heat at the burning of the Telegraph Office, in this city. It was in the direct line of the flames, the books and papers were uninjured, and the damage to the Safe very slight although it fell from the second story to the basement of the building. The little repairs necessary to the Safe have been made, and we shall not need to return it. It is still as good as new.

Respectfully yours, JAS. EDDY.

Littell's Living Age.

E. LITTELL & CO.,

Corner of Tremont and Bromfield Streets,

THIS work is conducted in the spirit of Littell's Museum of Foreign Literature, (which was favorably received by the Public for twenty years,) but as it is issued in a larger size, and appears so often, the editor not only gives spirit and freshness to its pages, but the subscribers are enabled a month's delay, but while thus avoiding his cheap and gathering a greater and more attractive variety, to add so to increase the solid and substantial part of his literary, historical, and political harvest, as fully to satisfy the want of the American reader.

The elaborate and stately Essays of the Edinburgh, Quarterly, and other Reviews; and Blackwood's noble criticisms on Poetry, his keen political Commentaries, highly wrought Tales, and vivid descriptions of rural and mountain Scenery; and the contributions to Literature, History, and Contemporary Life, by the sagacious Spectator, the sparkling Examiner, the judicious Athenæum, the busy and inquisitive Literary Gazette, the select and comprehensive Britannia, the solid and intelligent Christian Observer; these are intermixed with the Military and Naval reminiscences of the United Service, and with the best articles of the Dublin University, New Monthly, Fraser's, Tait's, Ainsworth's, Hood's, and Sporting Magazines, and of Chamber's admirable Journal. He does not consider it beneath his dignity to borrow wit and wisdom from Punch, and, when he thinks it good enough, makes use of the thunder of The Times.

The steamship has brought Europe, Asia, and Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly multiply the communications at Merchants', Travellers', and Periodical Reading Rooms throughout the world; so that which hung than ever before, to be informed of the condition and changes of foreign countries. And this not only because of their nearer connection with ourselves, but because the nations seem to be hastening, through a rapid process of change to some new state of things, which the merely political prophet cannot anticipate or foresee.

Geographical Discoveries, the progress of Colonization, (which is extending over the whole world,) also voyages and Travels, afford favorite subjects for his [illegible]; and, in general, the editor's sympathies and views fully accord with the spirit naturally and freely [illegible] his readers with the great department of Foreign affairs, without neglecting our own.

While the Living Age is desirable to all who wish to keep themselves informed of the rapid progress of the Age—to Statesmen, Divines, Lawyers and Physicians—to men of business and men of leisure—it will be found to be equally attractive and useful to their Wives and Children. It is indispensable in every well informed family. We say indispensable, because in this day of cheap literature it is not possible to guard against the influx of what is bad in taste and virulent in morals, in any other way than by furnishing a sufficient quantity of what is good in character. The mental and moral appetite must be gratified.

☞ In commencing the second term of the closing, by preparing abundantly for the [illegible]. And by a large collection of Biography, Voyages and Travels, History, and more solid matter, a work is produced, well calculated for universal popularity, and to raise the standard of publications.

This excellent work is published every Saturday, by E. LITTELL & CO. Boston, who supply orders by mail from all parts of the country. It will [illegible] at the end of each month, and the [illegible] will be as good as new.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—The Providence (R. I.) Morning Herald says: We think no candid person will fail to recognize the Tribune as the leading American Journal in the following, from the Boston Herald:

"At the head and front of the Journalism of New York, without reserve, stands the Tribune. This is a paper that every North American ought to read, whether he does or does not agree with its views. The Tribune is the cheapest paper in the country. Its [illegible] is [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] of the day, and [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the

Now the numerical system is in favor. We have 'Twenty Years After,' 'Thirty Years After,' 'Forty Years After.' Soon it will be 'Fifty Years After,' 'Sixty Years After.' There are the Seven Capital Sins,' 'The Four Sons of Aymon,' 'The History of the Thirteen,' 'The Forty-Five,' &c. For interesting titles, no one can dispute the palm with the Viscount Armincourt, who, besides 'The Brewer King,' has for titles to some of his works, 'The Player, or Usurpation and the Plague,' 'The Chief of the Black Penitents,' and the 'Cadet of Eastpassus of the North, or the Mysterious Visitor.'

After the title, which need not have any direct reference to the subject of the book, we come to the preface. A friend of mine once remarked that prefaces, for the most part were stupid, but for a philosophical reader there is nothing more diverting.—There are proper prefaces, humble prefaces, prefaces in prose, prefaces in verse, &c. One in his preface announces that his work is delectable, who then asked him to publish it? In certain prefaces the author executes numerous variations on the well known theme Les hommes changent mais les femmes sont toujours, and this prophecy is falsified on the whole edition being crammed into a magazine of pepper, which is an infallible preservative against the worms.

In some cases the author enters into an argument and defends himself before having been attacked, which is an unpardonable prejudging the work which is to follow this anticipated defence.

We now go on to the Legimacy of the romance.

'There was do you love me,
Edward, have pity I do, &c.

Others, and these are more numerous, begin with the description of a road on which two travellers are advancing on the subject, the author gets up behind one of them, listens to their conversation, and follows in their travels which become the subject of the work. Sometimes they begin with a whirlwind, this produces a strong action, in other cases an aurora borealis, and likewise Strix Uspecans. The hours in which to locate the localities are daybreak, noon twilight, midnight. The interjectional poems are the only parts in which the actions of real life are carried on, in romances they are abolished.

The months are: January, for child romances, in which to stand on the chase, we have snow, avalanches, encampments on a frozen lake. August is for novels filled with burning seductions, incestuous love and the like. October for forensic studies, in which appear quality students, black eyed ladies, and consumptive persons who go out into gardens to see the dead leaves fall and lament over their fate. These last require in order to be read with profit, a previous cry course of internal and external pathology.

If the romance brings forward a love sick heroine, who passes reposes upon springs and covers writers with sighing for her lover, is forbidden her to eat, all that can be allowed her is a lozenge, a macaroon, and a glass of pure water. The true lovers must be one and one third, for it has been clearly proved that a large and rosy checked man is incapable of tender sentiments. If a rich man is introduced it is very proper to give him a daughter, that he may be pinched in that excessively dramatic situation which is described by these words 'the purse of the daughter' observing that from habit the miser keeps the purse and not that of the daughter. In case of a tragic scene, it must take place precisely at midnight, so that, if possible, the massacre should begin at the first stroke of the clock, and finish at the twelfth.

In all romances it is well to have a traitor who of course must be large, dry, meagre, and even a little squint eyed.

Having laid down the aphorisms of science we may at a future time give successively some idea of the different style and manner of writing proper for a romance.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1851.

Citizen's Meeting.

At the request of the signers, we publish to day a public notice for a meeting of citizens at Market Hall, on Wednesday evening next, to nominate a candidate for Mayor to be supported at the municipal election on the second Monday of March. The number of signers and their well known worth to the community are sufficient reason for our giving publicity to the notice even if we were personally opposed to the object of the meeting. It is one of the appropriate and legal means of arriving at a full expression of the public sentiment regarding the fitness of candidates for public stations. There have always been considerable numbers of our citizens who have been in favor of selecting the officers of the city without regard to party politics, and for most times they have been selected upon this basis.

Our own views have generally been in favor of conducting the municipal election upon the same basis as in the state and nation. At present we are not advised as to the wishes of the whig party in reference to the city election but we have no doubt but that the whig city committee will, after consideration agree, as usual, to call a public caucus and submit the question as to what policy shall be pursued.—Such a meeting as proposed in order to keep up the organization of the party, to choose their city committee and to make the necessary preparations for maintaining the integrity of the party against such times as the whole strength may be required to secure the success of whig principles in the legislation of the country.

☞ We hear that a premium of five per cent is now usually paid in Boston on specie and par bills, small change. This premium causes persons in various parts of the country to procure all the specie they can but hold it to remit to Boston for sale. Such agents have been operating for some time in this city, and it is estimated that many large amounts and the consequence is that the whole country will soon be drained of its small change to a degree that will make it inconvenient to do business. We advise our readers to do as much as they can to prevent these agents who for the gains they make are willing to subject the community to so many serious inconveniences and troubles. Let the effort be strong all our business men to keep what is left among themselves, to end of depositing of it to any one even at a premium.

The Florida Indians.

The Tallahassee Sentinel states that Captain Cressey, the U S. Indian Agent, has had an interview lately with the chief Billy Bowlegs. The captain told him of the action of the Florida Legislature for the removal of the Indians, and he urged that now was his last chance for a peaceable arrangement, as the United States authorities were his friends, and would see him comfortably removed, and pay him for going.—But if he delayed, the Governor of Florida would be down upon him with his long knives. Billy replied that if the United States Government were really his friend, it would not interfere while he thrashed the Governor and Legislature.

The Cuban Trials. The third trial of Gen Henderson at New Orleans for a violation of the neutrality laws in respect to the late Cuban expedition was commenced on the 19th inst. The previous two trials have been had, and the respect of each one ended. The second trial resulted in a jury equally divided, while the first had resulted in conviction and four only for acquittal. The trial is now by the consent of the parties with the court room and without but not be more decisive unless, indeed, the accused be acquitted. A conviction seems to be out of the question.

We have received a copy of the Messrs. Harper's cheap edition of this work, now just from the American press, and which, from the vigor of its style its bold suggestions and its beautiful word-painting of touching and significant scenes, will cause it to be read with uncommon interest, and be a numerous class with unmingled pleasure.

The general scope of the work is the encouragement of charity, and free, genial manners, and the exposure of Romanism, particularly that of the church, whose open aggressions are now causing so much alarm in England. The scenes of action lie in the British Islands, and the time embraces the first quarter of the present century, with a little lapping on to the second quarter.

Agricultural Science, No. 7.—Manures.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

Prof. Mapes took charge of a field in Hamilton, New Jersey, the last year for the purpose of testing, although it had been tilled for several years with the use of barn yard manure. He analyzed the soil and found it deficient of chlorine, soda, potash, phosphate of lime and ammonia. To supply these elements in the soil he made a compost of salt and Hungarian (chloride of lime and carbonate of soda) refuse bone black from sugar houses previously treated with diluted sulphuric acid and Peruvian guano, wood ashes, coal dust and plaster of paris to retain the volatile portions of the ammonia. This preparation cost $1 51 per acre. The result of this experiment on testing the value of supplying to the soil the inorganic constituents of grain which it needed. Five crops of corn was by no means what it would have been under full treatment of manure; but it is good heart but vastly large than it would or could have been by simply manuring with barn yard manure.—Ranger Courier January 21, 1850.

This science and this practice may do perhaps for the exhausted, worn out sandy soils of New Jersey, but they will not do for the farmers of Penobscot. The soils of this county are not exhausted but are rich in the inorganic constituents of all the crops we cultivate. But with every crop taken from a field we remove a portion of the inorganic constituents of plants and to prevent exhaustion they must be returned to the farm of manure. And in doing this, must the farmer disregard the use of his barn yard and stable manure laid up in the spring, and buy salt, lime, refuse bone black, phosphoric acid (urea) guano wood charcoal dust and plaster of paris? To supply what? Chloride of soda, potash, phosphate of lime and ammonia? First, let the farmer enquire what the amount of his earnings and horse stable is made of? Dr. Gray gives the following as the result of his analysis of cow manures. Lime phosphate of lime magnesia iron, alumina, phosphate and sulphate of potash—in other words, all or nearly the inorganic constituents of the crops we cultivate. But we are told in the face of these facts, that no quantity of barn yard manure will return so much inorganic matter to the soil as $1 51, and as we have no ingredients bought at the store. Farmers should not be deceived by such statements.

The farmers of Maine must rely, for the means of keeping their lands in good heart, chiefly upon the manure of the cow yard, stable and hog pen. These manures can be greatly increased in value by saving cheap and easy means of composting. One bushel of plaster should be mixed with as much manure as is intended to be put upon one acre of land. The cost is twenty cents per bushel. The advantage of this application is a double one. In the first place, we add to the manure both lime and sulphuric acid substances which perform important functions in every crop we cultivate, and in the second place, we prevent the evaporation of the ammonia gasses which have always a tendency to escape during the progress of decomposition.—We would next apply to the manure heaps the addition of ashes. The ashes of our forest trees contain all the inorganic constituents of the crops we cultivate, and are particularly rich in lime, potash, sulphuric acid, chlorine and phosphoric acid. A bushel of good ashes contains five pounds of potash.

It may be objected to the addition of ashes to the compost heaps, that the mixture will hasten the evolution of ammonia and thus rob the manure of its nitrogen.—If, however gypsum be applied previously, or in combination with the ashes, this objection will, in a great measure be removed, since the ammonia has an affinity with the sulphuric acid of the gypsum, with which it forms a salt body, the sulphate of ammonia. But even were this not the case, observation has taught that it is almost impossible to expel all the nitrogen, that which remains, will unite with the potash, in the great laboratory of nature, fresh supplies will be collected from the atmosphere, and the result will be the nitrate of potash, or common saltpetre of commerce, an agricultural agent at least as valuable as any preparation of ammonia can be.

The manure made by our cattle, sheep and horses should be shoveled over in the spring, as early as the frost will permit, and the plaster and ashes we intend to apply, being first thoroughly mixed sprinkled into the heaps. By shoveling over our manure heaps early, and scraping our barn yards, two important objects are gained; first, we mix in our plaster and ashes, two powerful fertilizing agents; and secondly, by shaking the manure up lightly, we admit to every part of the heap the nitrogen of the atmosphere. This is important, for no decomposition of the manure can take place so long as air, or nitrogen is excluded; admit it and decomposition commences instantly. Our manure should always be shoveled over twice in the spring. If we would make the most of our means, and prepare it for the food of plants, it will well pay for the labor.

Cape of Good Hope.

We learn from Capt Dayton, of the ship Dutchess that news had just arrived at St Helena, from the Cape of Good Hope, that another Caffre war had just broken out. The Governor, Sir Henry Smith had gone into the interior, and with 1000 men had come to Fort Cox and was hinged to fight his way out disguised as a soldier with 250 mounted Cape Riflemen without any Dragoons by his side—The Caffres flocked to the war cry. They were coming down upon him in thousands. The Governor, Sir Henry Smith, has issued a proclamation declaring a war of extermination.—[N Y Express.

Bliss's Compound Cod Liver Oil Candy.

The German physicians contend that Cod Liver Oil has a most salutary effect generally upon the system; as well as a specific effect upon the organs of the throat and chest. If this be true what an invaluable article it is. If so again, will the leaning Yankee world think an ingenious chemist has discovered the means to deprive it of its offensiveness and its combining with a candy in such a manner as to render it perfectly palatable, will all the medicinal qualities of Cod Oil be retained. Get Bliss's Candy, and test the truth of our recommendation. See ad. If you do not find one a counterfeit.

Congress.

Washington, Feb 27

Mr Chase presented numerous petitions for the repeal of the fugitive slave law and the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia. Tabled.

Mr Dayton called up the bill giving patentees remedies against persons who shall import from Canada and the territories adjoining the United States, such articles and products manufactured by the inventors and patentees of the United States. Under the present laws American inventions are carried into Canada and there produced and manufactures are brought in to the United States and sold to the prejudice of American patentees.

Mr Turney opposed the bill.

Mr Dayton replied and the bill was ordered to be engrossed.

Mr Pearce reported the naval pension bill, and moved to strike out the appropriation for the payment of pensions to private seamen.—The amendment was agreed to and the bill passed.

The bill granting lands to the State of Louisiana was debated and laid on the table.

The bill providing for a survey of lands in California was taken up and after a long debate, laid aside.

Mr Greene reported a joint resolution granting a sword to the nearest male relative of Major Ringgold. After some debate, the resolution was ordered to be engrossed.

The Mexican Indemnity bill was received from the House and referred.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill limiting the liability of ship owners.

Mr Rantoul supported the bill in an admiral speech, and it was finally passed by yeas 28—nays 21.

Mr Douglass spoke in favor of the bill granting lands to Louisiana and aid in draining the same and explained the provisions of the bill.

Mr Bewell gave a history of the system practiced by the U S in disposing of public lands and argued whether the U S ought not to give to States the land within their jurisdiction. He said that lands should be given to actual settlers and not kept as a source of revenue. If the public lands were cultivated it would be much the country benefited. He spoke at great length upon the subject.

After an Executive session the Senate adjourned.

In the House,—Mr Hubbard introduced a bill graduating the price of the public lands—referred to Committee of the whole on the state of the Union.

The House went into Committee of the whole on the army appropriation bill.

Mr Howard showed the importance of keeping up additional mounted forces from the Rio Grande to the Gila to protect the frontier and carry out the stipulations with Mexico.

The debate was continued until the hour of recess.

After the recess, an unsuccessful attempt was made to suspend the rules so as to permit the House to take up the resolution passed by the Senate to employ a national vessel to bring Kossuth and his companions to this country.

The House then went into Committee on the Army Appropriation bill. The appropriation of $100 000 for repairs of fortifications, was stricken out, and other reductions made amounting to $320,000, when the Committee rose and without passing the bill, the House adjourned.

THE Great American Remedy

FOR Colds, Coughs Asthma Whooping Cough Croup and all diseases of the Chest and Lungs has now been so long before the public and its reputation so well established both from recommendations of Physicians and from the invariable test proof of its infallible virtues by all who have used it that its sale has become immensely large and it must very soon supercede the use of every other article used for the same and kindred complaints As a family medicine it can never be outdone In double the usual dose it almost invariably vomits the child on the first stages of croup and relieves and quickly terminates it

For certain a number of years it has been the favorite and universal remedy in all the cases named of one of the most celebrated and skilful Physicians

Sold wholesale and retail by R K HARDY, at No 7 Harlow's Block Bangor and by Druggists generally throughout the country All orders will be promptly attended to nov 15

GENUINE BALM OF COLUMBIA

PUT up with a luxuriant lock of hair from the head of a beautiful dancing girl to prove the genuine Balm of Columbia In order to defeat counterfeiters and others who have for many years been in the habit of stealing the name of this valuable article without its merits we have adopted the above method of putting up the Balm which will hereafter be the only way it can be obtained Any person purchasing the Balm in any other form will be imposed upon

Age state of complexion appreciate to be one of the principal causes of baldness Hair Dressings which contain Alcohol Oil or Grease will in a few years destroy the hair and cause baldness Hundreds of cases have been known where persons have used this Balm for a few months and have a beautiful head of hair when all other means had failed

The Balm of Columbia is the only article of the kind ever offered to the public which does not contain Alcohol Oil or Grease and is entirely free from all kinds of mineral poisons which are found in many of the preparations now offered to the public for the hair Many who have lost their hair for twenty years or more from the effects of mercurial poisons have had their hair restored by the use of this Balm

The Balm of Columbia is unlike any other article of the kind in its effects It does not stain the skin or injure the finest fabric with which it may come in contact It is perfectly harmless in its effects on the most delicate skin and is the only article of the kind ever offered to the public which does not contain some kind of mineral poison

The Balm of Columbia is a luxuriant dressing for the hair and will keep it in any fashionable style desired Ladies who have been troubled with dandruff will find the Balm of Columbia a sure remedy

Gentlemen who have been troubled with dandruff or scurf will find the Balm of Columbia a sure remedy

Ladies who have been troubled with dandruff or scurf
